What Does Ice Mean to You?

Did you ever stop to consider what an important part ice plays in modern life? Without ice the summer heat would be almost unbearable. It keeps Baby's milk fresh and sweet; it preserves food; it's necessary in the sick room; it makes drinks cool and refreshing. These are some of the things that ice does.

When buying ice be sure to demand the best. Three points in our favor are—(1) It is pure and clean; (2) It is lower priced; (3) It lasts longer. Stop the driver or call the office for the best ice in town.

of the girl discovered the tragedy, who swarmed about the scene of the crime until police reserves were called out to hold them in check. After pumping many bullets into the bodies of the victims the murderer tore from the wall a picture of the couple and mutilated it. The girl's body was wrapped tightly in a quilt, that of the bridegroom lay sprawled on the bed, the head almost unrecognizable from bullet wounds. Guicco had taken pretty Margaret Gandolfo to wife despite her father's disapproval according to the excited inhabitants of the Italian quarter.

Capstan Glass Closes Season Monday; Plenty Of Games Are Booked

Glass Blowers Play Today, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, Next Monday.

BOOSTER DAY ON 15TH

With just one more week for the Capstan Glass baseball season, Manager William Perry has arranged a busy schedule for his boys.

Beginning this evening there will be games on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with the final session on next Monday.

The second game with the Stewart baseball club for the season of 1924 will be played at Stewart today. The team will go there this afternoon.

In the first game Stewart came off the victor and Capstan will have to tie things up this afternoon to save the purse.

All the remaining games will be played at South Connellsville. Tomorrow evening the Divada team of the Dickinson Run, Dawson, Vanderbilt district will be here for a tilt.

On Thursday the Ralph club will play. To date the club has won 28 games and lost seven.

On Saturday Yukon, the amateur champions of Westmoreland county, will be at South Connellsville.

The final game will be Monday, September 15—a booster day clash. Capstan has offered the best independent baseball seen in this section of Fayette county this summer and has a big following. The club expects its adherents to be out in force for the last contest. Opponent will be the opponent for that game.

FIRST TOURNAMENT OF TENNIS ASS'N ENDS WITH DOUBLES

The first annual open tournament of the Connellsville Tennis Association, which opened on Monday, Labor Day, closed Saturday with the completion of the mixed doubles. The matches were run off during the morning.

The tournament was considered a very successful one. There were 40 entrants in the men's singles and 20 in the women's singles. Ten men's teams and eight mixed teams were listed in the doubles.

Leonard Reed of Pittsburg and Marion Semans of Uniontown, took the trophies in the mixed doubles finished Saturday. In the first match Larry and Betty Semans, both of Uniontown, defeated Reed and Miss Marion Semans. That pair then defeated D. R. Gorman and Margaret Gray, both of Jeannette.

The finals were between Reed and Miss Semans and Edward Dick, Jr. of this city and Miss Susan Reall of Frostburg Md. The scores in the finals were 6-5, 4-6, and 6-3.

Divada and Star Junction Close With "Booster"

The Divada Independents and Star Junction will meet this evening in the deciding tilt of the inter-town series at Star Junction in a benefit game for the widow and children of Charles H. Williams, better known as "Chuck" to his many friends, who died about three weeks ago. More than 1,000 persons are expected to witness the game and a large delegation will accompany the Yough club also to the Junction town.

Mike Pallow, formerly with the Connellsville Independents who defeated the "Iron man" feat on Labor Day in defeating the Boggs & Buhl line from Pittsburg in both games of a doubleheader, will go on the mound for the tri-town outfit, while Nicholson will receive the hurling assignment for the Junction team. Both teams have won two games and each is determined to cop this evening's rubber contest. The game will be called at 8 o'clock.

Dickerson Run Win Over Newell Is Big Surprise in League

The crack Dickerson Run railroad team pulled a surprise in the Pittsburg & Lake Erie League Saturday when it defeated the crack and undefeated Newell side at the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. grounds by a 6 to 4 score. This was the first defeat for the Newell club in two years and came unexpectedly to the visiting aggregation. Skipper Bill Addis himself, went on the mound and pitched a good game. He allowed the visitors only seven hits and kept them well scattered.

Eighth Game Between Stewart and Capstan Will Be Played Today

This evening at Stewart the Capstan Glass baseball club and the crack Stewart club will meet for the eighth time this year in playing an unusually long inter-town series "Jeff" Moorman will twist for the glass blowers while Brinker will heave for the Stewart club.

The third game between the glass blowers and the Divada Independents will be staged Tuesday evening at the South Connellsville grounds. With the Burglars in a slump and the tri-towners playing a bang-up game, the Capstan aggregation will have to put up a better brand of ball to win the tilt from the Yough city club. The Divada management will present an exceptionally strong line-up against the Capstan team.

Dunbar Twp. Gridders at Steady Work

With the echo of the booted pigskin ringing in the ears of the various schools, enthusiasm is running high as to the prospects for the coming football season at the Dunbar Township High School. Never before has the team had a brighter outlook than this year. The school is looking towards the opening of the season on September 27.

Approximately 50 "huskies" reported the first evening to Coach H. N. Basom. Light drilling, callisthenics and handling of the ball was the main of the practice during the last week but every day the workouts are getting more strenuous and the lads are rounding into shape. Coach Basom finds capable assistants in O. B. Zuercher, B. M. Sinerer and W. E. Titchell.

The uniforms will be given to the lads the first part of this week and it is probable that a scrimmage will be in store for them before the week goes by.

Coach Basom announced that there are 11 positions on the team to be filled. He assured the candidates that by no means are any of the positions "ditched." "You've got to show the stuff or you won't be on the first eleven," Coach Basom told the lads. Mr. Basom's excellent work was largely responsible for the good showing of the eleven last year and he expects bigger things from the squad this year. Harry Landymore is captain of the team with Andrew Hans at the managerial end.

"CAP" STUMPS

Amusing Story Told on Umpire Guthrie

Monroe Sweeney, the new National League umpire, recalls an amusing incident which occurred during the heat of the series between the championship Port Worth team of the Texas league, and the New Orleans pennant winners of the Southern league. Bill Guthrie, who has an inimitable drawl about him, was one of the Southern league umpires in the series.

It so happened that Bill had called a close one which brought down the wrath of the New Orleans fans. Presently a dozen or more pop bottles started bouncing around Bill's head and the other umpires gathered around him.

"Looks like they think you missed that one, Bill," he was told.

"Ah, naw," said Guthrie, "den's only a few of my friends sendin' down their cards."

BETHANY TEAM GETS DOWN TO HARD TRAINING

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 8.—Heavy practice is on at the Black grid camp here. Coach McCandless has been giving his men just a little heavier work every day since the camp opened last Tuesday and this week they will be going strong.

Practice sessions are held every morning from 10 o'clock to 11:30 and in the afternoon from 3:30 to 4 o'clock. "Training rules will be enforced this year and the men will be encouraged to take the very best care of their bodies," said Coach McCandless.

Among the Freshmen who are in training camp is John Kendrick, Mingo High athlete, who is out for a line position. Kendrick weighs 175 pounds and stands six feet tall.

Another very promising Freshman is Donald McBane of East Liverpool who is also out for a line position. McBane tips the scales at 180 and is also six feet tall. He was a stellar grid player at East Liverpool High School.

More Freshmen will be in sometime next week and from this Freshmen group the varsity coaches expect to pick the heaviest and best men for varsity material and the other players will become candidates for the Freshmen team.

Call for All Grid Candidates of High School Is Sounded

Grid practice of the Connellsville High School is scheduled to start in earnest this afternoon. A call for candidates has been issued and the boys will report immediately after the dismissal.

Coaches I. E. Lefew and Cawley Settle have already conducted some light workouts at Fayette Field, but with the beginning of the regular sessions today, it is expected that some youths, who have not been reporting, will be on hand.

Pittsburg Nationals lost two important games at Cincinnati yesterday when the Reds cleaned up in a double header. The first game went to Cincinnati 4-1 and the second 4-3.

New York Nationals trounced Brooklyn by driving in five runs in the eighth inning. The score was 8-7.

By losing two games yesterday, while New York was winning, Pittsburg is now two and one-half games behind the leaders.

The Washington Senators and New York Yankees leader and runner-up respectively in the American League, held the same positions over Sunday, each club losing. Detroit Tigers won, again thereby gaining ground on both clubs.

On Saturday Pittsburg won two while both the Brooklyn Robins and New York Giants were splitting a

"HIS MYSTERY GIRL," on view today and Tuesday at the Paramount, presents Herbert Rawlinson in the stellar role.

Kerry Reynolds, guilty of much seriousness and little play—finds his roommate having a good time, with the assistance of a gay gang. Instead of getting a chance to upbraid his house partner, Kerry finds himself the victim of a curtain lecture. Dick tells him he'll be in the graveyard pretty quick. His associates in business tell him the same thing. Kerry goes to a doctor and sees a girl with tears in her eyes. The doctor tells Kerry: "It's a case of worry over a fortune, and family troubles." In a hotel lobby, he sees the girl again. She leaves her handbag on a "divan." He picks it up. Immediately two house-detectives chase him. He lands in a lonely house at night with 19 men to lick. Dick chooses him everywhere. "Day of women in trouble" he advises, but Kerry is determined to sacrifice himself for romance. Meanwhile, his friends laugh "up their sleeves"—but that's the story.

Wednesday and Thursday "The Man From Wyoming" will be shown.

The Soisson

"BORROWED HUSBANDS" — Showing today and tomorrow at the Soisson, is an adaptation of a series of popular stories by Mildred K. Barbour. Florence Vidor, Earle Williams and Rockcliffe Fellows appear in the leading roles.

The story treats of a woman whose husband went on an expedition to South America and while he was away the wife decided to borrow her friend's husband. The scheme was successful, but when put into practice certain complications developed which proved not only exciting and dramatic but convinced the young wife that husbands were one of the things a person had better not borrow. Many humorous situations, real life scenes, dramatic movements and make the production one of rich entertaining qualities.

Different types of men and the various emotions that move human beings to action is the keynote of the story. It treats the faithful wife, the type of men, the faithful husband, the lounge lizard, the drifter and the man of ideals and standards, all of these become involved in the plot along with several types of women ranging from the faithful wife to a milliner who causes most of the trouble.

"The Tents of Allah" will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Orpheum

"UNGUARDED WOMEN" which opened today at this theatre for a three day attraction, presents three popular Paramount stars, Bebe Daniels, Mary Astor and Richard Dix in the leading roles.

"Unguarded Women" was adapted by James Creelman from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Face," by Lucy Stone Terrell. It concerns a young man who is a moment of physical cowardice and his faithful wife to whom he is still haunted with bitter memories of his momentary weakness. In an effort to forget, he goes to China, accompanied by his fiancée. It is in Peking that Fate takes a hand in the drama. The faithful wife, who thought he might live, and then we see this high-minded, honorable man decide to make the supreme sacrifice by giving up his fiancée and all thought of happiness to devote his energies towards saving the widow whose water disappeared for the conventions has put her outside the pale of society.

It is a strange, tense, dramatic struggle that takes place there in the picturesque Orient, the heart-stirring conflict between love and duty.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Constantine Talmadge will be seen in "Dulcy."

FAYETTE COUNTY LEADS STATE IN SENTENCES ON LIQUOR VENDERS

HARRISBURG, Sept. 8.—More jail sentences were given liquor law violators in Fayette county than any other county in the State, according to a report of the 19th-month period ending July 31, 1932, compiled by the State Police. The report shows that Fayette county far outstrips all the other counties in the State where the State Police are active in rounding up bootleggers, moonshiners, and the casual liquor law violators. A total of 327 persons were sent to jail by the Fayette county judges in the 19th-month period.

Fayette county was apparently far ahead of all other in compelling respect for the law among the ranks of the men who sought to flaunt the 18th Amendment.

Washington county compiled the next best record for prison sentences, and that county was far behind Fayette with a total of 65 persons sent to prison for violating the liquor laws.

Furthermore, the State Police records indicate that Fayette county judges were more disposed to deal severely with bootleggers than those in the other counties of the State. Thus, of the 479 arrested by the State Police in Fayette county during the 19th-month period, 205 were convicted, while only 25 were acquitted. One hundred and forty are awaiting trial, three persons died while awaiting trial, 37 escaped jail upon payment of the costs, 11 others were ordered to pay fines, while 21 paid both fines and costs of the prosecution. Apparently the "treat 'em rough" faction of the Fayette county judges and juries instilled fear in the minds of the 25 alleged bootleggers for they forfeited their bail bonds and fled.

All of the 327 persons who were sent to jail, 325 also had fines imposed upon them. The jail sentences were usually quite severe. Thus 11 persons received sentences of more than 18 months, eight from 12 to 18 months, 52 from six to 18 months, 181 from two to six months and five for two months or less.

Fayette county also leads every other county in the total amount of fines imposed upon the law breakers by the judges. A total of $117,000 was collected in fines levied upon the bootleggers. The amount represents slightly more than one-sixth of the total of $651,043.93, collected in the 67 counties in the State during the same period. The record, however, deals only with arrests made by the State Police, so that the real totals of jail sentences, arrests and fines for the 18th Amendment violators are probably much larger than indicated in the State Police report. However, on the face of the report Fayette county appears to be the leading county of the State in law imprisonment activities.

Foreign Demand For American Coke Now Less Than 1923

Foreign demand for American coke established the peace-time record in 1923 and was only exceeded by two war years 1917 and 1918. Since then the demand has fallen off. The actual figures are as follows in gross tons:

1913	2,215,000
1914	2,215,000
1915	2,215,000
1916	2,215,000
1917	2,215,000
1918	2,215,000
1919	2,215,000
1920	2,215,000
1921	2,215,000
1922	2,215,000
1923	2,215,000
1924	2,215,000

These figures show that the 1923 record of 2,215,000 tons per month of exports exceeded both the 1922 and 1923 shipments, but that the decline in 1924 has been sufficient to bring the average per month down to 55,460 tons.

Outside of the war years, the previous record has been in 1913 but the sales in 1923 exceeded those of 10 years ago by over 26 per cent. One cause of these heavy shipments was undoubtedly the occupation of the Ruhr by the French which caused some American coke to be sent to other territory and which has also caused a demand for American coke in nearer localities which formerly depended upon either continental European or British coke. The gradual improvement on the Ruhr situation is reflected on the decline in the foreign demand for American coke.

The Truant Soul

By Victor Rousseau
Copyright by W. C. Chasman

"I came to speak to you about this morning," began Joan hurriedly. "I mean—"

He indicated a chair. He was gazing at her with some embarrassment. Joan thought because of the scene in which he had just participated. "Tell me the trouble," he began, as she seated herself, drawing up his own chair toward her.

Now Joan could see his face, and to her astonishment, it did not bear the expression of the smiling bully whom she had seen that morning, nor yet of the man who had addressed another man in such terms as one might use to a slave. It was not an unkindly face. And it was unmistakably that of a sick man.

For a moment she remembered the stories told of his behavior in the operating theater, of the gentleness that seemed to transform the man, as if he possessed a dual personality. Then she was recalled to herself by Lancaster's repetition of his remark.

Joan rose up hastily. She realized that the doctor had mistaken her for a patient. Her face meant nothing to him, any more than her distress of the day had affected him. With a nervous movement she unlocked her cloak, disclosing her uniform.

"I am Miss Wentworth," she explained. "I came to tell you—I came to say—"

Then, trembling out her pride once more, "I came to ask if you won't reconsider your decision to suspend me. My work means everything to me. It is my life work, my vocation. I always wanted to be a nurse. I felt that it was my task to help alleviate suffering. Doctor Lancaster, apart from my own interests, I want to graduate to be able to help others. Won't you give me another opportunity?"

She spoke with her hands unconsciously clasped before her, the recollection of her earlier hopes the thought of their frustration brought a quiver into her voice. When she stopped she saw that Lancaster was looking at her with obvious interest. "Tell me about this morning," he said quietly.

"I had to come away without breakfast, and the fumes of the ether made me faint. I was nearly fainting when you asked me for the scalpel, and I couldn't see the tray. Indeed, it was not the operation that made me ill. I have never been reprimanded before. The lady superintendent had told me several times that the hospital appreciated my work. So I hoped you would be willing to overlook my blunder and let me graduate."

Lancaster looked at her with a singular expression that seemed to make her think. She could not tell how his thoughts. She could not tell how her plea had impressed him. When he spoke she was dumfounded by the earnestness and earnestness of his tone.

"Why have you come to my house about this?" he asked. "This is not my hour for seeing patients—I mean people."

"I am sorry if I did wrong," cried the girl. "But if you know how much it means to me—"

"I can do nothing for you now," said Lancaster.

The voice was harsh again, but curiously flat as if he was trying to restrain his emotions, hold himself in as if he was afraid. But afraid of what? Not of his anger.

Joan was standing in front of him and even then the appearance of the man had something pathological about it to her mind. There was not the least faintness or self-consciousness about him. He looked older than in the morning, depressed and certainly ill. His manner indicated that of one just aroused from sleep. His eyes were very bright, and his face unnaturally pale. He was pressing his thumb and finger firmly against the arm of the chair as if for support. Joan remembered the stories of his drinking habits. But she saw at once that Lancaster had not been drinking. She had attended too many alcoholic patients at the hospital not to be sure of that.

"Doctor Lancaster, my dismissal means the loss of all my prospects. I came to ask if you won't inquire about my record and then give me another chance," said Joan. "And I am sorry if I came at an inconvenient time, but now that I am here I must request the courtesy of a final answer. I shall not come to you again."

"I can't answer you," said Lancaster, as if speaking in his sleep. "In the interests of discipline—it is impossible to answer you now."

Joan turned away. The fact returned to her. And there was something preposterous about Lancaster's manner, perfectly incomprehensible to her. What was the matter with him? Why did the room turn round and round? Suddenly she felt Lancaster's hand on her arm. He was supporting her, helping her to a chair, and through the fog she saw a look of concern on his face.

Now it quiet. Miss Wentworth, he said in a new tone of decision. Sit quiet. I tell you. Wait a minute and when you are feeling composed let me see if I can't help you."

He drew his chair toward her, again and leaned toward her.

"I have not been feeling well," he explained. "I was not myself when I discharged you this morning. When I refused to discuss the matter with you it was because it is an inviolable rule that the nurses are not supposed to come to my house. Outside the hospital I see nobody connected with the hospital. I'll see what I can do. The matter will have to go before the board now, I suppose. Why did you come away without your breakfast? Why didn't your folks insist on your having something to eat?"

"I have no people," answered Joan. "My mother died nearly two years ago. We came here from Lucas county, and she was taken ill soon after our arrival. I hoped to get my diploma and have my profession."

"You had no breakfast and I discharged you for fainting and your diploma means everything to you," said Lancaster slowly, clasping his hands as if in thought. Then with a dead, cold gaze he leaned still nearer. Joan and dropped his voice as he spoke, as if he was afraid that the man in the next room would hear him.

Remember this as long as you live," he said. "In this life people are not punished for being unfortunate. Are you unhappy, Miss Wentworth?"

"I—why, yes, I suppose I must be," she answered, looking at Lancaster with growing astonishment mixed with a little fear.

"And you have sympathy for the unfortunate? You—you said something like that just now—about wishing to be of help to others. Are you loyal and staunch?"

"I hope I am," said Joan uneasily. "I am loyal to others, one does not fear one's own misfortune," said Lancaster. "They rise out of some fault or weakness—if one follows the trail for enough back into one's self I've learned that heaven knows! Miss

"Return" Habit Costly to Parties Concerned

Have you an overgrown "return" habit? Or do you, on the other hand, dread, as much as anyone, the possibility of buying goods that some one else has taken home, tried on repeatedly—and perhaps even worn!

One out of every three articles sold in the average shop states a New York dress manager is returned for exchange or credit. This practice he says, results in a loss to the store—and the store generally and justifiably makes up the loss by increase in the price of other articles. Such a system means that the woman who hasn't the "return" habit must pay for the unsightly merely indifferent, sometimes unscrupulous nature of the woman who has.

The custom of taking goods from the store on approval grew up before emphasis began to be laid on sanitation, and has been losing ground of late. Most stores today refuse to take back articles for personal use, sometimes coats and dresses, and sometimes place labels in prominent places on wearing apparel refusing to permit their return when a missing label signifies that the garment may have been worn by the customer. The label device grew out of the desire to protect both shoppers and merchants against certain conscienceless persons who wore the borrowed garments on one or more occasions and then returned them to the store to be sold to an unsuspecting customer. This type of person induced some merchants to limit the period in which goods might be exchanged or returned to a very few days.

It is calculated that in many stores the return practice robs about one-third of the work of the delivery department absolute waste. Even conservative stores report about 20 per cent of their merchandise returns.

It is a business standpoint that the state of affairs is unprofitable, waste to merchant and consumer—in both of fact and expense to the former and in increased price to the buyer.
